Lay the steak, chops, ham or fish on a wire broller or meat rack, placing it in an ordinary bake pan to catch the drippings.

Allow it to remain in the oven with the door closed 15 or 20 minutes. No turning is required. At the end of this time it will be found nicely cooked ready to serve. This is the ideal, way to broll Meats. There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke, and the meats are more tender and better in flavor than those broiled over the coals. The convenience or broiling in the oven will be appreciated by every house keeper, and adds another to the many reasons why the Charter Oak Range or Store, with the Wire Gauze Oven Door should be preferred to all others now in the market.

The mail clerk thought the package was peculiar and suspicious looking, and he obtained permission to have it opened, when it was found to contain a small phalfilled with what was thought to be an explosive compound, connected with springs attached to the bottle, Careful investigation to-day has, however, shown that the whole thing was a hoax. The box was a jeweler's scarf-pin box, and the small bottle inside was filled with a brown powder made up, probably, of pulverized coffee.

In the County Court this morning the drainage tax cases were on trial. The cases were brought by Buckland & Pallen and a number of farmers in the American Bottom who have been assessed an exorbitant tax for a number of training Bluff Lake. The last assessment was $28,000, and as the property-holders could not see what benefit they were deriving from the taxes imposed on them they decided to contest the payment of the tax in the courts. The cases occupied the whole day's session of the court. So far $78,000 has been levied for drainage purposes, and another levy of $35,000 has been ordered. The property owners say that about the only draining accomplished was the draining of their own pockets, and they had competent engineers in court this morning to testify that the plan of drainage now being pursued was not even feasible. While the cases were being tried this morning Mr. Pallen, who was giving his testimony, said that the land was assessed for $9 an acre, and would not bring more than $11 if put up for sale. He was asked by Surveyor Hilgard whether he would be willing to sell it at that price, and when he answered in the affirmative Mr. Hilgard sald he would see him after court adjourned and purchase sixty acres from him. The deal in the court was the cause of a great deal of merriment. It was afterwards consummated.

ed and will go into effect April 1. It is possible that a few changes may yet be made chances are that the rates will to be noted in the rates is that they have been equalized with West-bound rates, and freight can be shipped as cheap to New York as from New York to East St. Louis. In making up the tariff the West-bound rates have been East-bound rates to that figure. The rate to New York under the old schedule is $1.26 and under the new it is 87 cents per hundred, the same as the rate now from New York to East St. Louis. This is in accordance with the section of the law against discrimination. The rate to Boston against 114; to Baltimore, 84 cents against 113; against 75. These rates are for first-class

The law instead of having the effect of increasing through rates, if anything, lowers them both ways; so that the advantage-to the seaboard points is very great. There is another aspect of the rates which is troubling the lines and will be a source of considerable trouble to Chicago and other cities east of the Missisippi River. This is that the new rates under the law will affect all rates from the seaboard to local points on all railroads, and will open every point to the New York market at lower rates than can possibly be given to any internediate market. Take the Chicago & Alton or the O. & M. for instance. The rate from New York to East St. Louis or the other way is 57 cents. This makes it absolutely necessary that the rate from New York to every local point on the road should be less than 87 cents. Cincinnatior Chicago, therefore, will have to ship with the New York can go right into the territory of these cities and ship at through rates. There are only two alternatives, such intermediate markets must lose their trade or the railroads must sacrifice their local rates which is impossible. markets must lose their trade or the railroads must sacrifice their local rates which is impossible. It simply puts the seaboard closer to every point touched by the railroads than any intermediate market and New York can undersell any clty west of it.

The danger to local traffic has been seen by some of the roads and they are preparing to obviate it in some way. It has caused loud protests in Chicago and elsewhere. It works both ways and would inevitably send all grain and produce direct to the seaboard, a consumation devoutly wished by the trunk lines. The first road to take action on the threatened danger is the Ohicago & Alton, which has given notice that it is out of through business on westbound traffic. This action is taken to protect its local tariff, as the acceptance of the rates would amount to a 50 per cent reduction of its locals. General Freight Agent Courtwright has issued the following circular:

"I respectfully give notice that at present it is not the intention of this company to open its line on the basis of a pro-rata of the rate fixed from seaboard and other Eastern trunk line points to East St. Louis, except on certain commodities and business, which will be hereafter enumerated in special tariffs to be issued as soon as possible.

CHICAGO, March 30 .- The Daily News' special rom Morris, Ill., says: In the Schwartz-Watt murder trial to-day Engineer Woods described the blood stains in Nichols' car and the appearance and location of the baggage, express matter, etc. The location of the blood stains indicated a desperate struggle and that Nichols tried to reach and that Michael tred to reach the valve to set the air-brakes. Smoke and cin-ders from the engine fell so thickly on Watt's car that it would be next to impossible for a man to remain upon the roof and cover Watt with a revolver thrust in the transom. Witness returned thrust in the transom. Witness returned from Davenport the evening after the murder with Conductor Danforth, Schwartz was on the train and talked with witness about the satchei which Danforth found in the car closet. Mrs. Brooks then read her annual address, which was an encouraging resume of the work for the past year and the past decade. When she came to the statement that the Board had raised $63,000 in the ten years, she stopped and cautioned the ladies not to pass over this sum without considering its magnitude. Accustomed as they are to hear larger amounts mentioned, she was afraid the delegates would not estimate what a large total of collections it really was. She dweit upon the great increase of the resbyterian Church each year, and said to ought to fisher the ladiese to greater endeavors to think of the increasing strength of the Church shi, around them. The address was well received.

The two previous elec-tions were declared vold by the Central Committee on account of certain irregulargies at the polls, and a misunderstanding over the legality of some of the votes cast. Central Committeemen Mike Sullivan, Chas. Hilke and John Steffen were selected by the on and to umpire the contest.

Mr. Sullivan, Chairman of the sub-committee, said: "We are going to give all of the candidates a fair show and a square deal, and to-night the Central Committee will arely recognize the election of one of them we are sick and tired of al! of this squabbling and the matter must be settled to-day, once will pass off quietly. Committee, and I tell you I'm the boss unpire.

The two leading candidates are Wm. Dolan and John Cooney. In the southern precinct of the ward Dolan is particularly strong, while Cooney's friends claim everything in the northern end of the ward. The contest is a bitter one, and some of the more timid politicians have been frightened at the prospect of ballot-box stuffing. This morning Mayor Francis had a long talk with Committeeman Mike Sullivan, who has the election in charge, and assured him that the judges and clerks would have all of the police protection necessary. Under the circumstances and in view of the preseautions taken, the election will hardly result in the usual Fourth Ward fiaseo and a square primary will probably be held.

The Central Committee's sub-committee fixed the polling places at 1231 and 1835 North Broadway. The polls will be open from 2 until 7.0 clock.

A man of limited education but of sound natural since, shrewd, brave and honest. If I had a lag of gold I had to hand somebody to keep ma dark night, I'd give it John Clark and sleep very easy."
"What do you think of the prospects of the city ticket?"
"Think it will go through, with a few exceptions."

Will you be in St. Louis long?"
'Yes; a month or two."

Local politicians in both parties are busile mgaged just at present in an attempt to disount the effect of the repeal of the 1857 law in the coming election. At first it was generally supposed that the local Democracy would hunnished by the brewers and saloon-keepers forme acts of a Democratis Legislature, by a berry saloon vote on the Republican side. The morning the situation was slightly alked, and the prospects of the Democrats looked more cheerful. This change in popular sentiment was due to the argument of certain Democratic city efficials who impressed upon the brewers and saloon element the danger of ankeonizing the city as well as the State administration. It was pointed out to them that the trecution of the law is practically in the hands

They brought down on the head of the Assessor a storm of undeserved abuse from consumers who had not wasted water. The circulars had the intended effect on the guilty parties, and as a result of the prompt and energetic action the supply of water in the reservoirs immediately increased and the threatened famine was averted, Mr. Mott did not draw up the circular and consequently feels that he should not be held accountable for any offense its wording may have given.

The appointment of H. L. Edmunds as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee created no little surprise among ward politicians. It was generally expected that Tom Cleary of the Twenty-seventh Ward would get the place, as the leading Administration member of the committee. Edmunds, however, is also an Administration committeeman, and his selection over Cleary has really no significance. In this connection it is currently reported that Cleary took a place in the committee merely to help out Tom Kaye, who had more of a fight on his hands than he could manage by himself in the Twenty-seventh. Having accomplished his object in nominating Kaye and saving the ward committeeship for the administration, Cleary, it is reported, is now anxious to resign and put a friend in his place. This is believed to be the reason why he did not get the Ways and Means Chairmanship.

Campaign Chat.

Recorder Hobbs: Ah! we got 'em now. The Sunday law settles it. Judge E. A. Noonan is doing good work for his friend Phil Rohan. These are cold nights for open-air meetings in the party strongholds. Ex-Justice Pat O'Connell is classed with "that Marmaduke gang."

Wm. Boyce: Poor Jimmie Moore is dead. I wonder if I'm all here myself. Tom Cleary failed to get the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee. Charley Maffitt and Sid Francis hold long consultations togsther on 'Change.

Some of the workers are wondering where Judge Henry D. Laughlin has been. Frank Lacy says he got even with Jimmi Moore and his wife at the primaries. Thomas B. Harvey is just recovering from serious attack of congestion of the liver. Chris Oberbeck has been added to the Republican Executive and Financial Committee.

Recorder Williams: Gov. John S. Marma luke takes no interest in St. Louis politics. Paddy Brennan will run as an independen candidate for the House of Delegates in the Eighth Ward. Barney Thorman has a deal to say about how Marshal Martin Neiser's Central Com

Peter J. Eagan, the test-case defendant, promises to become as widely known as Chi-cago Joe Mackin. Fred Gerber: The Democrats will only elect one candidate on their Council ticket and that man is Phil Rohan.

The City Hall Democrats are willing to ex-tend Street Commissioner Turner's leave of absence indefinitely. John Henry Pohlman is betting heavily on his own election over Patsey Griffen in the Twenty-fourth Ward.

Collector Sexton wants to bet that ever doggoned candidate on the Democrati Council ticket will be elected. Henry Edmunds of the Twenty-second Ward is the high-collared and dudeish member of the Central Committee.

Rufus J. Delano says he is "laying off" for the balance of the campaign. John McFall will do most of the "hustling."

Jim Carlisie says Pete Stretch of the Eighth Ward is a trifle hard of hearing. "Yes, but he can vote," answers Doc McGarry. It is reported that Water Commissions Whitman has been offered a position as er gineer by one of the Gould roads.

The Democratic Central Committee assessed candidates for the City Council $100 and candidates for the House of Delegates $25. Engineer Johnny Burke of the Four Courts is affected by the mere mention of the name of a reviser. He is eloquent in his denunciation of the "deal" given the Fourteenth Warders by the last board.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes of the Court of Criminal Correction: I'm not in this campaign. I'm more concerned about the Sunday law, which promises to give me cohsiderable work.

John Fifin: I haven't got the voice I once had for turbulent gatherings. A few years ago I could make myself heard in a pretty large hall, but I find my voice getting a little husky of late years.

Paddy Brennan's friends claim that the Keenan party stuffed the boxes in the northern precincts of the Eighth Ward. Brennan lacked 41 votes of the nomination and the fraudulent ballots are estimated at 43. John Waters' friends are endeavoring to get James P. Egan to withdraw from the race for the House of Delegates in the Seventeenth. The two Democrats in the field will almost surely elect the Republican candidate.

The candidacy of N. O. Nelson has failed to work up any enthusiasm in the Water Department. Mr. Nelson is too well posted on water meters and stop-boxes, and entertains some peculiar views on the subject. He seems to discern a difference between kissing and the award of stop-box contracts, and thinks that while kisses might go by favors, as the saying has it, the award of contracts for stop-boxes should be made with regard to the best and cheapest contrivance. These odd views or their entertainer cannot hope for an indorsement in the Water Department.

The friends of Mr. John Vogel, Republican Candidate for the Council chaim that the statements made that he is not known outside his ward are erroneous. He is an old resident, they say, and as far back as the year 1852 he was prominent in connection with the wholesale dry-goods trade on Main street. Next he became a partner in the firm of Jamison, Cutting & Co., which firm was succeeded by Smith, Vogel & Co., and Walter M. Smith & Co., in both of which Mr. Vogel was a member. About the year 1874 he withdrew from active business, investing his money in real estate and building in which he is now engaged. His friends say that his course in the House of Delegates has shown that he is earnest and honest in trying to assist the building up of the city, and that as his interests are all in this city, the welfare of the city and his own are identical.

At this afternoon's meeting herefore it will be suggested that the popular nvitation be so worded as to include the enparticular stress on the period of the Grand Army Encampment. THE MAMMOTH INVITATION. The committee this afternoon will be called upon to approve the design for the mammoth invitation now in the ands of Mayor Francis. Individual members of the committee have already expressed heir admiration of it and there is little doubt that it will be accepted. The work of distribution will then begin. Frank Gaiennie is already in receipt of a large number of reques for the parchment slips to which the signauted as soon as the committee approves of them. An opportunity will be afforded the people of the suburban towns immediately around St. Louis to put their signatures in the big book.

Newspapers all through the West are beginning to take up the subject and to second the POST-DISPATCH in its efforts to bring the President West. It is the general belief west of the Mississippi River that if the President comes as far as St. Louis he will keep on until he has taken in Colorado. The people of Colorado are enthusiastic over the prospect. If he does not go beyond St. Louis, however, the people of Colorado and all the Western States will come to this city to see him. They will be satisfied if he agrees to meet them half-way. People from the far West have journeyed as far as Washington to shake hands with a Democratic President. They will think nothing of coming as far east as St. Louis.

Put me out of the way as soon as possible. Nobody likes me and I don't like them any better. The Duchess saw it fast enough and laughed until her good-naturned sides shook, when the minister, having thanked Her Royal Highness for presiding at a certain bazaar, went on to say how he rejoiced to see at her side the lovely and amiable Princess Victoria, and expressed a hope that the latter "would soon follow on the broad lines of her mother." The Duchess and her daughter were convulsed with merriment, the rest of the audience tittered and gasped with suppressed amusement, and the reverend Scotchman looked about him amazed, wondering what they all could be laughing at.

THE signing of the Sunday bill by the Governor brings the saloon interest into prominence in local politics. Democrats are found to assert that the Democratic saloon-keepers will vote against the Democratic ticket because the Governor has signed the bill. This idea is perhaps unfounded; it certainly sounds absurd. It would be much more reasonable to assume that the Knights of Labor will vote agains the numerous saloon-keepers who have been nominated on either ticket. Inasmuch as the Knights of Labor do not admit saloon-keepers into their order they could not consistently vote to admit them to the Municipal Assembly.

The case against the Merchants' Terminal bill may be considered closed, and the bill may as well be passed.

THE act of 1885, prohibiting the importation of foreign labor under contract, made it the duty of United States District Attorneys to prosecute all violators of its provisions, but did not make it the duty can Almanac and other unofficial publications of any other official to look out for such violations and furnish proofs thereof to the District Attorneys. Consequently the law remained practically a dead letter, and contract labor by the ship-load was permitted to be landed in our ports without let or hindrance, while the Custom-House officers were vigilantly guarding against attempts to smuggle the products of foreign labor. But last February this act was so amended that it is now the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to charge his Custom-house subordinates with the enforcement of the law, and henceforth it will be their duty to detain all immigrants arriving under a definite contract made abroad to perform stipulated labor in this country. All such immigrants are to be sent back at the cost of the owner of the vessel bringing them over, whether he was aware of the contract they had entered into or not.

The Times says: "It will be a great blow to John Sherman and not pleasant news for Mr. Blaine to learn that a committee of the Legislature of Connecticut, having a Republican majority, has reported favorably a resolution that goes to the heart of the only remaining professed principle of the Republican platform-makers that has any vitality in it. Their resolution declares that the Federal taxes on imported lumber, wood, sait and copper ore are an injury to the interests of commerce. The declaration is entirely true. These taxes are an injury not only to the interests of Connecticut, but to those of the whole country and particularly to the manufacturing interests. They make manufactures of almost every sort more costly and they add to the cost of living while reducing the wages of the workmen. These truths, that are as obvious as that two the and two make four and not five or three, have been generally recognized by intelligent students for many years, but they have, so far as possible, been kept secret from the Republican voters. This remark was made with reference to the proposed change in the law relating to the sale liquor on Sunday. The Mayor is right. Any law which operates so as to deprive the poor of equal rights with the rich is objectionable, and not to be tolerated under our system of government. The coachman who drives a gentleman to one of our great clubs on a cold Sunday evening, onght to be just as able, so far as the law is concerned, to get a glass of sprits at some ought to be just as able, so har as the law is concerned, to get a glass of spirits at some groggery on his way home as the club man is to get a cocktail in the club before dinner. other members of the nine sent nint to determine the trip for it. His usefulness as a member of the Chicago nine was gone and he asked for and received his release.

Kelly played in the field for the Chicagos less than half the time and he has not been considered a good fielder of late years. He often dropped and misjudged files, was slow in handling grounders, and could not cover as much ground as Sunday. Kelly, of course, was slaws wanted in the nine because as a batter, base-runner, and coach he had no equal, and as a change catcher he could always be depended upon. One of the deelding games with Detroit was unquestionably saved by a marvelous catch by Sunday in the crowd in the right center field. It was a ball that Kelly could not have come within gunshot of. Kelly is now a veteran, covered with plasters and elastics, and is in no trim to de fine execution in the field. He will be sorely missed from the Chicago nine, but his place as a fielder will be easily filled. Only unintelligent critics can decide to the contrary. The missing man from the field is George Gore. He will be a loss indeed. But as he was on bad terms with other members of the nine, and is known to be the identical fellow who drank thirteen glasses of beer in the morning before one important game last season, the managers of the club could not do less than dispense with his services.

The Chicago Club has lost (1) Kelly schenge.

PROBABLE CHANGES OF DATES IN CASE OF BAD WEATHER.

Caruthers and Hudson's Services Badly Needed—The Strength of the Chicagos—Late Betting on Spring Races—Hase Ball Chat and Sporting Items of Interest.

To-morrow week, April 7, is announced for the opening struggle in the spring series of games between the Browns and the Chicagos for the world's championship. It is hard to predict just what turn the weather will take between the present and that time, but from the outlook the chances for a change are not even favorable. The present cold and disagreeable weather has proved a source of more or less annoyance to the club, and has deprived them of considerable field practice, the need of which is apparent at this juncture. In case of rain, snow or poor grounds on the day fixed for the first game, Thursday next, a SPEEDY SHELLS.

We have all been wrong about some things in boat building, but of course we are learning all the time. Unless we experiment we can develop nothing new, and every boat I build I try to make faster than the one finished before it. I think I shall be very well satisfied with my work this season. These boats you see in process of building are ordered by Edward Hanian of Toronto, George W. Lee of New York, James A. Ten Eyck of Worcester, George H. Hosmer of Boston, J. J. O'Malley of Worcester, James Riley of Saratoga and Mr. Flanagan of one of our local clubs. None of them will vary a great deal from Hanian's in dimensions—at least, not enough to be mentioned. Hanian's boat will measure 30 feet 6 inches long, 10% inches beam, 5% inches deep in the centre, 2% inches deep at the bow, 2 inches deep at the stem, and will weigh 27 pounds and a traction. Lee's boat, strange to say, will be narrower than Hanian's, being 10½ inches wide in the center. I have a double-sculi boat for Hield of the Pioneer Boat Club of Brooklyn, which will be 35 feet long, 10% inches wide in the center, 3½ inches deep in the center, 5% inc real ready thinks as I do, that it will be a very fast boat, and he wants to buy at once, but I will not sell it to him unless it proves all I expect. I figure that it will be from five to six seconds faster than the boat he made his fast time in last year. If it will save him that number of seconds I think it is as much as he can expect."

The rumor gained some credence and the Post-Disparch correspondent called on Mr. Colt. He emphatically denied any such intention. He said he considered the defeat fair and square and desired that it be known that he acknowledged being beaten and admired the yacht that beat him. The rumor had spread to London and Liverpool, caused by inaccurate reports of the start in several New York papers.

Exactly at 11 o'clock yesterday morning the count of money at the Sub-Treasury came to an end. The count began on Saturday, the 19th, and nine days of hard work have been put in by the six Treasury experts handling the immense piles of sliver and gold. The count showed that there was $21,813,621.68 in the vaults of which $10,473,263 was in standard dollars, $8,645,400 in gold and $1,336,416.50 in fractional coin. On the completion of the task, a tabulated statement of the sums on hand was made out by the examiners, and this was signed by Treasurer Shultz and turned over to Gen. Edwards, the retring Treasurer. No errors were found in the count and the experts commended the office highly for the accurate methods employed. The six examiners leave this evening for Washington.

"No. sir."

A young man residing in Lincoln, Placer County. Cal., is credited with optical organs possessing the peculiarities of those of an owl. He can see but little in daylight, scarcely at all in the sunlight, but at night his vision is perfect; he can penetrate the darkness with his peculiarly shaped and nocturnally constructed eyes, and distinguish objects at long distances when the "ordinary individual" cannot see his hand before him. His wonderful sight has been tested by many, and as a guide at night he has no equal.

A SARDINE'S STORY.

I was in a first-class restaurant dining with a friend, and feeling in a generous mood called for a box of sardines.

"Mind, now," I said to the waiter, "I want the genuine article—none of the down East imitation."

"Very well."

He disappeared and soon returned, bringing what seemed to be the real thing called for, picked up our check, replaced it with one calling for 50 cents more, smiled and retired.

"Ah!" I said, tipping back the lid, which had been skillfully opened by the waiter; "here is food it for a king. Look," I added, turning the box about so that my companion could read the legend neatly inscribed on the gilt band encircling the sardine box—a l'huille d'olive—"no imitation about that, eh? Try one."

about to drop his fork in amazement, believing the fish to be bewitched, when, to our wonder, it suddenly spoke out in a low but intelligible voice.

"I am no sardine."

"What are you?" I asked excitedly.

"Only a herring, a harmless little herring," it replied, innocently. "I never saw France: I don't even understand the language of the label on the box that recently contained me: I don't even know what an olive is, but if you want any information about cotton-seed you can consider me an authority."

By this time my friend had somewhat recovered his self-possession, and laying the talking fish tenderly upon the plate, waved his hand and said, in an interested way: "Go on; you seem to be quite entertaining."

"Entertaining? Oh. no," replied the little herring, with a diffident look; "not at all; I never had a college education; if I had I might not have been boxed up here with my unfortunate friends, but might have been editing a grocery journal, exposing canned-goods frauds and other abuses. No, I am only a little herring—a very small fish from the coast of Maine."

"From Maine."

"Yes. Maine. I would not have to get."

other abuses. No, I am only a little herring—a very small fish from the coast of Maine."

"From Maine?"

"Yes, Maine. I would not have to get naturalized even to vote; but then, you see, there aren't many people who know the difference. There's many a nobby young fellow in this country who cuts off his horse's tail, drives and talks English, who would pass for a genuine cockney in Zululand. Yes, I am adown East Yankee from Eastport."

"Eastport?" I ejnculated.

"Yes, close to Canada, where a good many so-called sardines would like to be in certain emergencies. I wish I was back there to-day, frisking in my native element, but I am doomed, it seems, to not only be devoured by our good friend here, but to tickle his palate as I go down with a genuine sardine flavor. No, I am no sardine; I am only a herring, a harmless little herring from Maine."

We were fast growing interested.

"You see," continued our fishy little friend, "some smart fellows down East found out by experiments how they would make me taste so much like the real French article that no American could tell the difference, so they went into the business on a large scale. The cotton-fields of the South furnish the seed—this makes the oil in which we are boiled, spiced and made to taste so deficious. Take a nip at me! There, now, you would not dream you had the taste of cotton in your mouth, would you? But it's there all the same? No a l'huille id'olive—only cotton-seed oil and harmless little herring.

it's there all the same? No a l'hnille d'olive—only cotton-seed oil and harmless little herring.

'Money in us? Yes, I should think so. Let me see; we cost 5 cents a box—a whole box of us, just think! The packer sells us at a profit of from 5 to 7 cents, the retailer sells us at a about 30 cents, and by the time we get to you on the restaurant table we are worth 50 cents. Not bad for a poor little Yankee herring, is it? And the a l'huille de cotton in which we are immersed is none the best, either.'

From London Court and Society.

The amusing contempt displayed by Americans and Englishmen for foreigners recalls a story which was told a few years ago when Mr. Gladstone and the Poet Laureate were cruising about under the care of Sir Donald Currie. At Copenhagen a party of royal and ducal personages, who at the time, were visiting the court of Denmark, boarded the Pembroke Castle. A Danish aide, in descending to the salon, tripped on the top tair and plunged headlong to the bottom with a blood-curdling howl. Hearing the disturbance the captain dispatched a petty officer to see what was the matter. In a few moments the latter returned. "One of 'em's fallen down the after hatchway, sir" "One of whom?" "One o' them kings!"

Lively Chinese Girl.

From the Grass Valley (Cal.) Transcript.

Miss Lily Tin Lov, a native American young fady (born of Chinese parents) and a member of the Grass Valley School, has gone to San Francisco and purchased a fine horse and buggy, with which she intends to amuse herself and her numerous Caucasian playmates. She and her mother propose to drive the rig all the way home. Sometime since, while on a visit to China, Lily showed her American spunk by bucking against Chinese customs (foot-pressing included). Her father is an ordinary Chinaman who has saved up some money here. A Laurary Most Doctors Can't Afford.

A rather impecunious party met a friend who was sporting a new suit of clothes.

"Hello!" exclaimed the former, "where did you get those new clothes?"

"Hush, it's a secret. I'll tell it to you if you'll promise not to give it away."

"I'll promise."

AMONG THE BROKERS. The Strike in the Peacock-News from Trading in mining stocks was fairly good to Bremen was offered at $1.20, which is a little cheaper than it has been. There was a bid for Silver Bar of 1942 cents

Peerless was offered at 70 cents. Some stock was sent here from Silver City a few days since, and the local stockholders are "bearing" the market with a view to buying it at a low price.

An effort has been made to put Laclede up a little above the 3-cent basis on which it has sold but unsuccessfully. It was offered in 5,000 or 10,000 share lots at 8½ cents to-day.

Sheridan was stronger to day. On call Stet-inius sold 100 and Little 50 to Goldman at 55 earts. Goldman then bought 500 and Mullally 60 from Stettinius at 57% cents. After the call ther trades were made at 57% cents.

Ideal was stronger to-day, although there was no news from the mine. On call Blessing sold at 100 to Gardner, 100 to Thryson, 200 to Brentano, and 300 to Goldman at 50 cents, and Stettinius sold 200 at the same figures.

Joe J. Mulially returned this morning from a trip to Kingston and Cooney, N. M. He went down for the purpose of examining the Olympic group at Kingston, which a local syndicate will probably take in hand, but while there he examined other properties. "The Locliel," he said this morning, "is a good mine and the people of Kingston speak well of it, but they criticise the management very severely. Mr. Tonkin, they say, does not see his men go to work one day in thirty. The consequence is they work one-third of the time and are drunk about two-thirds. The Lochiel I think will be a good mine, but it must be better managed before it will amount to anything. At Cooney I went through the Peacock, Laclede and Sheridan. The Peacock is the biggest mine in that section. They made a strike while I was there of a four-foot vein averaging $80 to $125."

There was a happy consummation of plighted love in one of the parlors of the Southern Hotel at noon to-day. Miss Lucy Burton of Stanford, Ky., and Thomas P. Hill, of Stanford, Ky., and Thomas P. Hill, Jr., formerly of Kentnoky, but now a special agent in a Far West Interior Department land-office were united in marriage, Elder J. C. Tully of the First Christian Church officiating. As Westean land-offices are now flooded with work, the groom could secure a leave of absence for only four days. This gave him only time to come to St. Louis and return, so the faithful and courageous little woman in company with her brother met Mr. Hill and a party of his friends here this morning and the marrige was arranged as stated. After dining at the home of one of their friends with some of the Kentucky colony, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will leave this evening for his Western home.

Shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon years of age, engaged in a stone-throwing geats of age, engaged in a some-throwing fight with two banana peddiers, at the south-east corner of Fourth and Morgan streets. New York, March 30.-The will of Eliza offered here for probate to-day. It is dated June 8, 1880. She bequeaths to Mrs. Eliza Smith of London, England, her mother, $8,000, and the rest of her estate to her husband.

GEN. B. S. RIPLEY.

Sudden Death in New York of the I tinguished Ex-Confederate Officer.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Gen. R. S. Riple who commanded the Confederate batteries that first opened fire on Fort Sumter, was stricken with apoplexy at the New York Hotel at 8 o'clock last night, and died at 1. Gen. Ripley, who has been living at the New York Ripley, who has been living at the New York Hotel for some years, came down to breakfast yesterday and ate a hearty meal. He arose and approached the table of Gen. Newton, who is an old friend of his, but just as he reached Gen. Newton's table he fell forward on his face, and when picked up was found to be insensible. Dr. Morris was summoned and pronounced the General suffering from an attack of apoplexy, and that his recovery was doubtful. Gen. Ripley remained in a comatose state, growing perceptibly worse until death came. The man stricken was large and stout and apparently in the best of health. He was 64 years old, and was a native of Ohio. He graduated at West Point and served with distinction with Maj. Robert Anderson, who, strange to say, was in command at Fort Sumter, when his old companion-in-arms led the attack against it. Since the war Gen. Ripley has made one of that coterie of men, ex-Federals and ex-Confederates who distinguished themselves in that struggle, and who have since made the New York Hotel their headquarters. He was a noted reconteur, and had a stock of clever anecdotes about noted people ever at his command. He was married, and his wife, who is now on a visit to Charleston, was telegraphed for. Gen. Ripley, some two years ago, in a yery interesting interview, gave the World his reminiscences of the attack on Simter. He was in immediate command of the guns that opened the attack. He had his headquarters at Fort Moultrie, and in the sands of Sullivan's Island there were several quite formidable batteries. A Capt. James was in command of Fort Johnston on the other side of Sumpter. Singularly enough, nowever, Gen. Ripley, the Confederate, was a native of Ohio, while Maj. Anderson, the Federal commander, was from the slave State of Kentucky. Gen. Ripley, the Confederate, was a native of Ohio, while Maj. Anderson, the Federal commander, was from the slave State of Kentucky. Gen. Ripley, the Confederate, was an antive of Ohio, while Maj. Anderson, the Federal commander, was from the slave Sta Hotel for some years, came down to break-

State of Kentucky. Gen. Ripley had married and had lived for many years in South Carolina.

"I had ordered," said Gen. Ripley, "some cocked hats for our uniforms, and one day before the attack I met a boy with a box in his hand running towards Fort Moulsrie. "Where will I find Gen. Ripley? he asked me. "Why, what do you want of him? said I. "Why, said the youngster, 'I heard that they were to start firing on Fort Sumter, and I must get this hat to him before they start." "He thought the attack could not be made unless it was in full regalia. As it happened I was awakened an hour or two before the first shot was fired by a false alarm that the signal to begin hostilities had been given, and I rushed out in my night clothes and caught up the cocked hat on the way. That was all my uniform, a cocked hat and anight gown. The first signal came several hours afterwards and I had plenty of time to dress. It was at 4:50 o'clock in the morning—a rocket from Beauregard's headquarters, near Charleston. My signal to the batteries on Sullivan's Island was three lanterns hoisted on a staff in Fort Mouitrie. The first shot was from an 8-inch cannon close by my station in the fort. It struck fairly the masonry by Sumter. A moment later and all the batteries on the island opened and in an instant we saw a flash of guns on Fort-Johnston. My batteries set fire to the barracks and it was only when we smoked him out that Anderson gave in."

Gen. Ripley was also the father of an interesting letter of December 25, 1864, to Gen. McGrath of South Carolina, in which he offered to surrender his commission in order to accept a command with the State troops then being hastily raised to oppose Sherman's march to the sea. In it Gen. Ripley com-

PRINCE AND POTTER.

THE BROOKLYN AMATEUR, ASSISTED BY ROYALTY, MAKES HER LONDON DEBUT.

Audience—The Prince of Wales Occu-pies a Box and Leads the Applause— How the Heir of the Throne Appeared

LONDON, March 30 .- Mrs. James Brown Pot ight together a distinguished and fash onable audience. Much interest has been taken in her first professional appearance upon the stage, and great curiosity has been eltconcerning the result of her venture. It ust be said at the outset that, judging solely by the effect upon the audience, she neither ade a brilliant success nor a failure. She ment from the first, but it cannot be said that any portion of her performance this evening entitles her as yet to high rank is a professional actress. But this she has not pretended to be. She has modestly taken a place in the general company of the theater. That she did this acceptably is the general verdict of the audience as testified by their approval. It was considered a rairly good performance and was warmly applauded slightly cheered. But there was no marked enthusiasm. Every seat was sold for this performance several weeks ago. THE CURIOSITY THROUGHOUT LONDON to see and hear Mrs. Potter because of the widely known fact of her social position in New York, and doubtless also in large part because of the interest shown in her venture

It is not possible for any one who has not been in England to conceive the influence exercised by the Prince of Wales in turning society in this or that direction by his ap proval or disapproval. The fact that he was interested in her success was sufficient in itself to fill the theatre with people who had never seen or heard of Mrs. Potter, exsociety. This indorsement alone of course theatrical season. The best part of her equip ment for the stage is her voice, which is strikingly pleasant and musical. The part in which she appeared was an ungrateful one. The box assigned to the Prince of Wales was on the left of the stage. Upon the red crimson ledge in front of this box there rested an encornous bouquet of white roses prepared for the Princess of Wales, and several programmes printed on white satin were placed upon each side of this huge bouquet. People as they came in seated themselves and began watching the royal box waiting for the coming of the Prince. The theater was brilliantly lighted up. The interior of the house, is handsomely decorated in dark red and gold. The drop-curtain is light gray, with a center picture representing a number of ladies and gentlemen in the dress of the time of King Louis XV. dancing a minuet. About 8:20 the Prince entered the box. He was accompanied by the Secretary of the German Ambassy and by Count Hatzfeld, the German Ambassy and by Count Hatzfeld, the German Ambassador. The three gentlemen were in plain dress.

It is provided the series of the time of Giancing carelessiy at the people seated in the stalis, he noticed here and there an acquaintance with a slight bow and a kind of smile. The absence of the Princess from the box was soon noticed and the large bouquet intended for her was removed. Its said that her absence was owing to the mental affliction of her sister, the Duchess of Cumberiand who is at present temporarily confined in an insane account of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the rise of the curtain or the signal for the wall after this arrival bold for a moment he drew from his pocket a pair of lavender kid gloves and put them on. He was the only gentleman in the box, nay, almost in the whole house, who were them. After he had loutoned them sistant depot agent for the Kansas & Guif Line, was shot and wounded yesterday in a restaurant by W. W. Bell, an employe of the St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas road. They had previously engaged in an argument concerning the Knights of Labor and bad feeling was the result.

San Anyonio, March 30.—A collision occurred yesterday at Dryden, on the Southern Pacific Road, between a freight train and a locomotive and caboose running on the time of a passenger train. The engineer of the latter was scalded to death.

Hio Granne Citr, March 30.—Two soldiers were attacked by four Mexicans on the Government reservation at Fort Ringgold on Menday night. Corporal Boyer was shot and wounded. Three Mexicans have been arrested on suspicion.

Galveston, March 30.—A noile prosequi was entered yesterday in the case of John Arto, who was charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Fredk. Tate, four years ago. Arto was convicted three times, but on appeal the case was reversed and remanded each time.

The actor who was most applauded, however, in this act was Duncan, the Scotch waiter.

Mrs. Potter, in her interview with Arnold Brinkworth, made a much better impression than in the first act. When the curtain went down the Prince led the applause and it was taken up all over the house. There were cries of brave and then were heard a few faint hisses, but these came from one of the upper galleries where it was said that an unfriendly section of the audience was located.

THE THIRD ACT WAS ALSA APPLAUDED.

Mrs. Potter's best performance in this scene was when she dropped in a dead faint simulated by her when she had just finished her altercation with Geoffrey Delamayne, and learned that he did not intend to consider her his wife. She wore in this act the same dress that she wore in the first. At he close of this act the applause broke forth which was not led by the Prince, although he joined in it. A second call before the curtain was made, but this was hissed down. The fourth act is the weakest part of the play. The scene represents a pleture gallery in which all the tangled web of the play is unravelled and everybody made happy. Mrs. Potter wore in this act a pale blue dress of some soft cloth. Her act ing in this act was much like that of the first act. It was fairly good but it did not thrill or touch one. There was nothing in the scene thies.

Mrs. Potter made as much of it as she could.

The andience responded very feebly when the curtain went down. There was a round of applicuse, several cheers and one or two cries of bravo. The curtain went up again and Mrs. Potter bowed her thanks to the audience for their politeness and civility.

AFFER THE PLAY WAS OVER.

Mrs. Potter received the personal congratulations of the Prince and the gentiemen with him. This was his second visit during the play. He visited Mrs. Potter at the close of the second act for the purpose of encouraging her and at the final drop of the curtain he presented to her his personal compliments on her success. He said to her: "Mrs. Potter, I think you have done more than well. We were all very much delighted."

Ruddygore's Failure.

NEW YORK, March 80 .- The Herald says: Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddygore" has not, so far as New York is concerned, scored a so far as New York is concerned, scored a financial success. Besides this, there have been some differences of a financial character between Mr. Stetson, proprietor of the Fifth Avenue Theater, and Mr. Carte, and the result is that "Ruddygore" will be withdrawn from the Fifth Avenue on Saturday week, and the company will sallsfor England on Tuesday. April 12, by the steamer Wisconsin. Many of them regret their sudden change of base, and others are pleased at the prospect of returning home.

The "Shadow Detective" is the title of the tandard's next attraction.

Jennie Calef, in the "American Princess, will be at the People's next week. The sensational situations of "Zitka" at the Standard seem to please the audiences there. The S. Draper company give a good representation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Pope" sentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Pope's for cheap prices.

Dominick Murray is a fine, vigorous actor of the old school and his versatility in character work is amply displayed in "Escaped from Sing Sing" at the People's.

The company with Louise Rial as star. of Wales led the applause and once when he did not, At the close she was applauded and The company, with Louise Rial as star, which will present "Forune's Fool" at Pope's next week, is an entirely different one from the company under the management of Morlande Clark.

Iande Clark.

There was another large audience at the Grand last evening, and "Adonis" went to lively appreciation. Another clever make-up of Mr. Dixey is his imitation of Wilson Barrett, which is clever, but of course is not so prominent as that of Irving. The sale for the second week will begin to-morrow morning, and it promises to be large, as many of the choice seats for this week were taken before Monday.

Notes and Personals.

A large meeting of candidates, irrespective of factions, was held last night at the Herald office for the purpose of making general arrangements for the campaign. Messrs. Tissier, editor of the Herald, and O'Brien, editor of the Signal, made a computation of the candidates for the thirteen offices to be filled at the coming election. It was found at the coming election. It was found that there were fifty-two candidates out. The registered vote of the city is 2, 182. After this showing East St. Louis will certainly be entitled to front rank for furnishing candidates. As the day of election comes nearer the interest in the election increases. It is now generally conceded that M. M. Stephens will be elected Mayor, but the present administration, which has placed no one in nomination for that office, are hopeful of electing two of their candidates for the Council. The parties whom they believe will be elected are Robert Cunningham in the Third Ward and Wm. Shea in the Second. If these two were elected the Board of Aldermen would be a tie and such a result would be satisfactory to the party at present in power. Mr. P. M. Sullivan, who formerly served on the Council, is announced as a candidate for Alderman in the First Ward. Mr. Oliver Joyal, a coal merchant, has also come out as a candidate for the Council, in the same ward. the Council, is announced as a candidate for the Council in the same ward. Alderman in the First Ward. Mr. Oliver Joyal, a coal merchant, has also come out as a candidate for the Council in the same ward. These additions make the total number of candidates running for the Council in that ward six; and all of them are equally confident of being elected. Each has sufficient backing to make the result very doubtful. For Collector there are only two candidates, Louis Bolsmenue and John Benner, Jr. Their strength is so equally divided that whichever of them is elected will have only a small majority. For Town Clerk, an office to which there is a small salary attached, but supposed big perquisites, there are seven candidates. Mr. M. F. Tissier, editor of the Heraid, is thought to have the best chance of election.

A car of stock arrived at the stock yards yesterday from Arkansas City containing steers, 6 sheep and 25 hogs, of which sixteen sheep and three hogs were found dead. MR. SEEBER AGAIN.

He Runs Foul of a Policemen and Is Badly

Richard Seeber was before Judge Cady to day on a charge of disturbing the peace Seeber is a man who compels his wife to support him by improper methods. He has had considerable trouble with the police and made threat at the Salvage Corps the other night that he was going to kill a policeman. This was made known to the department, and was made known to the department, and of course strengthened the feeling which the officers already had for him. Last night Seeber got into a row with a negro woman, and when officer kegan went to separate them he struck the officer. Egan then brought his club down on Seeber's head several times with terrible effect. This morning the man appeared in court with his head all bandaged up, and, to add to his sufferings, Judge Cady fined him $10.
